A REFUGEE child, homeless, his clothes hanging in shreds, slouched against the high wall that bordered the narrow street...

This fair woman, with the light-brown hair and gray eyes, reminded him of the one who used to live near his home...

Lydia had not wished to attend this feast in honor of the arrival of a son and heir to Mr. and Mrs. Wong...

The serving woman, her black hair oiled and smoothed into a neat bun at the nape of her neck, glanced at her mistress...

The child peered into the basket the coolie carried. Red eggs—and fruit and sweet cakes!

In the Wong compound the serving woman proudly proffered the knitted wool jacket...

At the earliest possible moment Lydia took her leave, and the amah reluctantly followed...

Miss Lucile Jones of Deansboro and Niel Walker, P.O. 1/c, and Julian Henry, P.O. 1/c, from Colgate University were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Teal Woolman.

Recent estimates indicate that at least 60 out of every 100 eggs consumed by New York state residents come from out of state.

On more than three-fourths of New York's vegetable soils, at least some lime is needed for best yields of all crops except perhaps potatoes, beans, and tomatoes...

Civilians at Peace

The Government needs and asks its citizens in this third week of peace to:

- 1. See your volunteer war jobs through to completion. War bond salesmen, price control and draft board assistants, nurse's aides and other Red Cross workers are still needed.
2. Go back to school to continue the higher education you will need in the post-war world...

Point Values Down
Point values for nearly all meats, all cheeses, creamery butter, and margarine will be reduced sharply and canned milk will be point-free during the rationing period beginning September 2 and ending September 29, Chester Bowles, administrator of OPA, says.

Steaks and roasts will be from two to three points less a pound; hamburger will be a two-points-per-pound bargain, down from 4; and reductions for cuts of lamb and veal range from one to three points.

Nearly all meats that now have a value of two or three points a pound are reduced one point. The new point value for creamery butter is 12 points a pound. Margarine is down from 14 to 12 points a pound. Points for all kinds of rationed cheeses have been cut 50 per cent.

Can Get Medical Care
Following through on a recommendation made by Congress, the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, announced that wives and babies of recently discharged service men, under certain conditions, are now eligible to receive medical and hospital care under the Emergency Maternity and Infant Care program.

A service man's wife may now apply at any State health department for care for herself and for her baby after her husband's honorable discharge from service, provided that at any time during her pregnancy he was in the fourth, fifth, sixth or seventh pay grades of the services or was an aviation cadet.

The same holds true in case the husband or father is promoted, a prisoner of war, missing in action, or dead.

No Rise in Price
Improved qualities of regular and premium grades of gasoline about to come on the market will cost consumers no more than the lower qualities of these grades produced for civilian use during the war, OPA says. Regular grade gasoline sold since mid-1944 has been generally about 70 octane, but this octane rating will move up to at least the normal level of 72 to 74 octane and may in some cases be in excess of 75 octane, according to advices received by OPA from the industry.

Use Potatoes Now
Full use immediately of potatoes from "intermediate" states is urged by the Department of Agriculture. The "intermediate" crop is expected to total about 32.7 million bushels and can fill a gap in the nation's food supply.

as well as the late varieties. In addition, storage facilities are now fairly limited. Potatoes harvested in hot summer months can only be stored in cool places, and most growers prefer to use premium grades (Turn to page 7, please)

"I lived in a house with a wall around it."

the serving woman stopped to speak to him. "What is your name?" she asked. "Truly Bright," was the answer. "Very good indeed." This was a common name for a child in her country.

When they reached their compound the child went in with them. "Where did you come from?" queried the amah.

"A long way off," the boy replied. "I lived in a house with a wall around it. I used to play in the garden until the day strange soldiers broke in and I hid. When they were gone I came out and—and—" his voice faltered—"my father and mother were lying there but they couldn't speak to me. Some neighbors took me and we walked and walked. Then I lost them and went with a man on a boat. He brought me to this city."

The serving woman turned to her mistress. "He has no home," she said, "may I feed him?"

"If you wish," Lydia replied indifferently. Her mind was fixed on a plan. She intended to leave this country and go to America.

One day she paused outside the room she had fitted as a nursery. She had an impulse to bid goodbye to the dear wee clothes and the dainty belongings. Slowly she turned the key and went inside, too engrossed in her memories to notice that Truly Bright was behind her.

He stood still, his eyes roaming from the lace-trimmed bassinet to the baby carriage.

He saw the mistress touch a small flannel garment and gently lift a silken coverlet. Suddenly a delightful thought came to him and he hurried away on slippered feet as noiselessly as he had come.

Presently he returned, his face aglow, a small bamboo basket in his hand. "For the new baby," he said happily.

It was as if scales had fallen from before Lydia's eyes, permitting her to see clearly for the first time in months. Her selfish absorption in her sorrow had poisoned the air around her and had caused her to forget her duty and her love for her husband. She took the basket and tears rolled down her cheeks as she looked at the contents. "Perhaps—" she whispered brokenly—"perhaps—"

In the woven nest were three eggs, crudely colored red. Red eggs for a son.
